The party is to inspect the properties of the California Consolidated Oil company, of which Admiral Evans is president, and will spend a few days in San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Mr. Hart represents an English syndicate, Mr. Mills Canadian interests, and Mr. Davis Mexican capitalists all interested in the investment possibilities of California Oil.

TEST OF MEYER'S NAVY IDEAS AT CAPITOL SOON

The test over the legal authorization of Secretary Meyer's reorganization work comes in Congress this winter. After the prolonged contest of last session a compromise was arranged by which the secretary was allowed to proceed for a year with his plans for the conduct of navy yards and for the administration of the navy bureau.

The whole subject will come up anew with the framing of the naval appropriation bill.

The success of his service as Secretary of the navy accordingly depends very much, as he views it, upon what Congress does this winter.

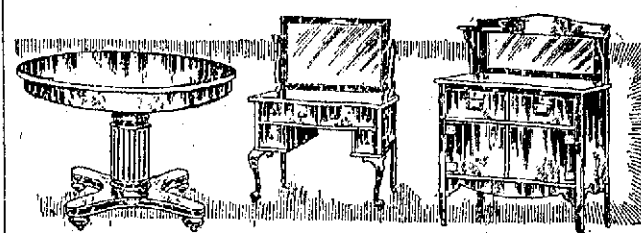

If he is given full authority to administer the affairs of the navy yards along present lines, and is not halted in a few other essential matters, the secretary will feel that the way is pretty clear for the completion of his ideas to get the navy upon a modern basis of efficiency.

GOOD PROGRESS REPORTED ON PANAMA CANAL

Summarized in a phrase, "satisfactory progress all along the Panama Canal Zone," is the gist of the annual report of the isthmian canal commission, made to Secretary of War Dickinson by Col. George Goethals, chairman of the commission and chief engineer in charge of the work on the canal, and made public Sunday.

The chief engineer reports, however, that it was not all smooth sailing during the past year, slides, breaks and floods hindering the work to a certain extent. He mentions four slides, covering respectively 47, 7.3, 4.6 and 1.7 acres and requiring the removal of more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of material.

"It was expected," he says, "that slides would occur and in the estimates provision was made for them, but it now appears from cracks that show in the upper surface adjacent to the faces of the cut that sufficient allowance had not been made and the estimates were corrected to meet the new conditions."

ATLANTIC SHORE LINE TIED UP TWO HOURS

For over two hours this morning traffic on this end of the Atlantic Shore Line was at a complete standstill, and cars on both the Dover and York branches were tied up all along the routes.

The reason for the breakdown was that the extremely high tide flowed into the exhaust pipes which project through the wharf near the power house, letting salt water into the boilers and necessitating an immediate shutting-off of power.

When the tide had sufficiently fallen, the plant was again started up and the schedule resumed at about 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The mails were nearly two hours late, but the ferryboat, Alice Howard continued her trips.

SHOULD RECEIVE A MEDAL

The employees of the Portsmouth Beef Co. are thinking seriously of presenting Simeon Harmon with a medal or some other fitting souvenir for his timely service in extinguishing the fire in the clothing of one of their popular drivers, who had carelessly put a lighted pipe in his pocket.

But for the South End grocer's timely aid Bert might have been seriously burned. His associates are, however, endeavoring to fathom how it occurred, as the victim of the accident still proclaims that he is on the water wagon.

SURRENDER OF SENATE SEAT

Demand by Foss "In the Name of the People"

LODGE IS GIVEN NOTICE

Governor-Elect Will Start at Once on State Wide Campaign to Defeat Senator if He Refuses to Withdraw as Candidate For Re-election—People Will Be Given Opportunity to Voice Their Sentiments

Boston, Nov. 21.—Governor-elect Eugene N. Foss last night issued a remarkable political statement to the voters of Massachusetts, in which he says:

In the name of the majority of the sovereign people of the commonwealth of Massachusetts I demand that Henry Cabot Lodge surrender his seat in the United States senate by withdrawing from his contest for re-election. If he does not know that he has been "kicked to a frazzle" some friend had better tell him.

His election to the senate would be a repudiation of the great victory of the people at the last election. He was on trial as much if not more than Governor Draper, and if he had been the candidate my majority would have been double what it was.

The issues on which the fight was made, on which I was elected, were honest tariff revision downward, lower duties on the necessities of life, freer raw materials, an untaxed food supply, reciprocity with Canada, and more democracy in our form of government.

Where does Senator Lodge stand upon these issues? We all know where he stands and where he has stood all these years. To re-elect him would be a step backward, and Massachusetts has never been known to walk backward.

I shall never sign his credentials except at the end of a campaign which will make the last one look like an afternoon tea party. He must surrender or fight. He must defend his position before the people. The people of Massachusetts will not permit him longer to manipulate the legislature. I am ready and if he does not retire will be on the stump in every section of the state, and we will find out where the people stand.

Senator Lodge is not in touch with the new order of things, with the progressive spirit of the times. He doesn't represent the people.

I do not deny Senator Lodge's ability, but only regret that he has seen fit to employ his talents in the wrong direction. For he has drifted away from politics that brought him in touch with the people and has thrown his powerful influence in favor of the trusts and special interests, until he has ceased to be a representative of the people, has ignored their wishes and has turned a deaf ear to their needs.

I will not sit quietly and see the work of years thrown absolutely away while Senator Lodge tries to manipulate his election, trusting to his superior skill in playing the game to force a victory against the decision of the people. The people voted overwhelmingly for the principles I stand for, but that victory would be rendered absolutely void and worthless should Senator Lodge, who opposed the legislation the people voted for, be sent back to the United States senate to work and vote against the relief the people have demanded.

If Senator Lodge will meet the issues and defend his course he will be given the opportunity, for unless he withdraws I shall start at once on a state wide campaign, going into the cities and towns and holding meetings where I will discuss his official acts, his votes, his known and admitted position on the questions on which the people have already voiced their opinion.

The people will be given an opportunity in public mass meetings to voice their sentiments. The case will be referred to them. Their verdict will be made known to the legislature and I have no doubt as to the outcome.

The people of the state, if they indicated anything by their votes, indicated their wish that Senator Lodge retire. Their action was a repudiation of Senator Lodge and the tariff for which he was so strongly responsible.

Shall the Lodge machine in defiance of that expression of opinion of the people be permitted to force through the election of Senator Lodge?

This is the issue and I am ready to meet it. I am unwilling that the work for tariff revision, lower cost of living and Canadian reciprocity and better government shall be hampered and delayed by Senator Lodge, who, if re-elected, would become the head and front of the ultra-high protective, reactionary movement.

Senator Lodge must either get out of his own accord or be forced out by the positive demand of the people. He must not be returned to the senate. I earnestly hope that the legislators will not commit themselves to any part of the legislative program until public opinion has thus had a full expression.

RELIC OF THE PORTLAND

Electrolite of Ill-Fated Steamer Is Found on Middle Banks

Boston, Nov. 21.—A mass of twisted electric light fixtures twisted about a brass electrolite, a portion of the saloon fixtures of the steamer Portland, which was lost with all hands in a November storm twelve years ago, was dragged up out of the sea by the fishing trawls of the schooner Ida Blinn off the Middle Bank and has reached Boston.

All doubt as to the authenticity of this remarkable souvenir of the wreck, in which the lives of the 300 persons were lost on the night of Nov. 27, 1898, is removed by the discovery of the name of the manufacturers of the fixtures inside the bowl of the chandelier.

By this discovery it is thought the exact location of the steamer's hull may be found. Several pilots have viewed the souvenir of the worst accident of the sea which ever took place on the New England coast, and an effort will be made to obtain other portions of the Portland from the depths of the Middle Banks.

BRIAND IS ASSAULTED

Struck in Face by Royalist at Ferry Statue Dedication

Paris, Nov. 21.—Imposing national ceremonies in the Tuilleries Garden in the memory of Jules Ferry, the French statesman, were marred by an assault upon Premier Briand, who, while walking with President Fallieres, was struck twice in the face by a Royalist. The premier was not seriously hurt.

The vast crowd which had gathered in the garden set upon the premier's assailant and only determined intervention by the Republican guards saved him from being beaten to death.

The man was taken before a magistrate and gave the name of Lacour. He was a member of the executive committee of the "Camelote du Roi," an organization of young Royalists, and said that he wished to strike at the republic in the person of Briand.

ANGRY BULL TREES

FIVE GOLF PLAYERS

Climb Preceded by Fifty-Yard Dash in Record Time

Wenham, Mass., Nov. 21.—Five Sunday golf players were tried by a bull on the Wenham links, narrowly escaping with their lives. The bull escaped from the barn of T. W. Batchelder and ran across the fields toward the men, attracted by a red jersey one of them wore.

The five climbed an apple tree, making the hastiest ascent in their lives. The climb was preceded by a fifty-yard dash to the tree.

For fifteen minutes the bull looked up at the red jersey, trying in vain to climb the tree. The golfers, after they recovered their breath, screamed at the top of their voices.

A groundkeeper was attracted by their cries. He summoned Batchelder, who, with two men armed with pitchforks, drove the Holstein back to the barn.

CAR CREW HELD

Fatal Accident Said to Be Due to Disobedience of Orders

Northboro, Mass., Nov. 21.—Charged with manslaughter, George H. Stewart and Fred C. Reynolds, conductor and motorman respectively of one of the trolley cars which figured in the collision of last Thursday near here, in which James H. Mansfield, motorman of the other car, was killed, were arrested Sunday. They were admitted to bail in bonds of $1000.

Stewart and Reynolds manned a car bound from Worcester to Marlboro, which should have met Mansfield's Worcester bound car at a turnout just outside this town. The two cars collided beyond the turnout.

Officials of the Worcester Consolidated railway, whose cars were concerned, charged Stewart and Reynolds with responsibility for the accident in not having waited at the switch.

JUST AS DEBT IS RAISED

Boiler in Heating Plant of New Jersey Church Blows Up

Calton, N. J., Nov. 21.—Just as they were settling up accounts after a fair in the Methodist church here, the proceeds of which were to pay the balance due on a new boiler for the heating plant, and the accounts showed that there was enough money to almost meet the debt, the boiler had to go and blow up.

The plant was installed during the summer by the Ladies Aid society of the church. Some scheme must now be devised to raise money for a new boiler.

WITH HIS WIFE AT HIS BEDSIDE

Tolstoi Passes Away In Home of Depot Keeper

BUT FEW FRIENDS NEAR

His Wife Admitted to Sick Room Just Before Death, but He Fails to Recognize Her—Russian Who Had Gained World-Wide Fame as Writer, Philosopher, Soldier, Philanthropist and Religious Teacher

Asiapova, Russia, Nov. 21.—Count Leo Tolstoi, self-exiled from home, died here in the home of the switchman at this dreary junction. He had been ill a week, refusing to see friends or relatives, save his daughter Alexandra.

Dr. Makovetsky and the other attending physicians and Countess Tolstoi and other members of the family were at his side when the end came. It was recognized long before that his case was hopeless and after the countess had been summoned and the other members of the family had gathered in an adjoining room, the physicians issued a bulletin announcing that the activity of the heart had almost ceased and that Tolstoi's condition was extremely dangerous. Several of the physicians were greatly overcome.

Countess Tolstoi was admitted to the sick room for the first time Saturday night, but her husband failed to recognize her. She had hastened to his side when she learned that his illness was serious, but the physicians had deemed it advisable that she be kept out of sight, fearing that her presence might cause the patient emotion. His daughter Alexandra has been in constant attendance.

Tolstoi was looked upon as one of the greatest writers Russia has ever produced. His countrymen have always believed in his sincerity, and though he has always advocated peace, he was regarded as one of the greatest of forces behind the revolutionary movement in Russia. He had written and touched upon subjects which would have meant exile to Siberia had any other Russian expressed such views as he advanced.

Although born an aristocrat, Tolstoi consistently preached the doctrine that the humble peasant had rights which even the czar was bound to respect. He has preached poverty, and gone about in peasant's garb. He wore this costume on the day that he set out with Dr. Makovetsky, leaving his family and friends with but $15 in his pocket and started forth to find seclusion. He has worn wooden shoes, filled the soil with rude implements and all this in the face of family opposition.

Devoutness was ever one of the orders of his life. He believed that Christian doctrine should be applied to the daily life of each person. The revolutionary ideas of Tolstoi brought him into conflict with the hierarchy of the Greek church many times and he has ever been disdainful of mandates emanated from the pulpit.

Tolstoi was born in Yasnaya Polyana eighty-two years ago and his family is possessed of a magnificent estate which the venerable sage made over to them some time ago. As a boy his education was looked after by tutors, but later on he was sent to the University of Kazan, where he studied medicine, astronomy, theology, chemistry and social questions.

Man to him appeared to be the greatest study of all studies and he has shown profound knowledge of human nature in all his books. He was opposed to war, a matter of opinion which perplexed many, for at one time he had served in the army and had fought at Sebastopol. In that defense of the citadel he proved himself efficient and brave officer, but after peace was declared voiced the opinion that the pen was far mightier than the sword and prepared to use this weapon in behalf of the rights of men.

He wrote novel after novel, which, under the guise of interesting fiction, has some moral lesson as its great object. His work on Napoleon, depicting the invasion of 1812, was extremely realistic.

In his autobiography he says: "I would divide my life into four periods—the innocent, joyful, poetic period up to fourteen; then those dreadful twenty years, the period of coarse dissoluteness of service, of ambition and vanity, and above all of sensuousness; next the eighteen years during which I have lived regular, honest family life, yet a period all the interest of which is limited to egotistical family cares, in concern for the increase of wealth, the attainment of literary success and the enjoyment of every kind of pleasure; and the fourth period, in which I may live and hope to die, from whose standpoint I see all the significance of my past life."

Minister Killed by Hiccoughs
Belmer, N. J., Nov. 21.—After an attack of hiccoughs lasting four days, Rev. Dr. J. W. Laurehin died. He had a similar attack four years ago, but recovered.

DEATH OF HENRY HOYT

He Achieved Bright Record in the Department of Justice

Washington, Nov. 21.—Henry M. Hoyt, councillor for the department of state, died at his home here from peritonitis. He was taken ill in Canada while there relative to the reciprocity negotiations between the United States and that country. Since his return to Washington last Monday he had been confined to his home.

In the death chamber when he died besides his physicians were the wife, son and daughter of the deceased.

Mr. Hoyt was the strong right arm of Philander C. Knox when the latter was attorney general. When Knox became secretary of state he lost no time in obtaining the transfer of Hoyt from the department of justice to his department.

His record of service in the department of justice is a bright one. He was closely associated with the attorney general in the prosecution of many of the cases involving attack upon the great corporate violators of the anti-trust law.

Keeping an Eye on Nicaragua

San Juan Del Sur, N. C., Nov. 21.—It is reported here that a British and German warship have arrived at Corinto. Their presence in Nicaraguan waters, it is said, is due to the refusal of the provisional government to recognize concessions granted by Zelaya to Englishmen and Germans.

Russian Actors Take Day Off
Moscow, Nov. 21.—The police yesterday forbade the theatres from suspending their performances because of the death of Count Tolstoi. Nevertheless the playhouses were closed, because the actors refused to appear.

"Are there?"

"Yes."

"What do they do about it?"

"They marry."

SUPREME BENCH IS VACATED BY MOODY

Retires Upon Full Pay by Resolution of Congress

Washington, Nov. 21.—The resignation of Associate Justice Moody of the United States supreme court took effect Sunday and a vacancy will exist in the membership of that tribunal until President Taft appoints a successor to the Massachusetts jurist.

About two months ago Moody formally tendered his resignation to the president. This he did on account of his health, which had for nearly a year confined him to his home.

Just before the close of the last session of congress, a resolution was passed by both houses, allowing Moody to retire from the bench upon full pay even though he had not reached the retirement age provided by statute.

SEIZURE OF BAD EGGS

More Than Ten Tons Taken From Refrigerator Company's Plant

New York, Nov. 21.—United States marshals seized 20,303 pounds of liquid eggs known as "rots and spots" in the King County Refrigerator company's plant in Brooklyn, upon a report from Washington that the eggs were not fit for human consumption.

The eggs were shipped here six weeks ago from Atchison, Kan., and some were sold to bakers.

Samples showed, the inspectors say, 2,300,000 malignant bacteria to each gram of eggs.

THOMPSON IS SENTENCED

Doctor Gets Twenty Years For Death of San Francisco Girl

San Francisco, Nov. 21.—Twenty years in San Quentin prison was the sentence imposed upon Dr. Robert Thompson, formerly of Boston.

Thompson was convicted of murder in the second degree through a criminal operation performed upon Eva Swan, a young stenographer, whose mutilated body was discovered under the floor of a vacant house.

Motorman Instantly Killed

Lawrence, Mass., Nov. 21.—Harvey B. Cronkite, 23 years old, a motorman, was instantly killed when he jumped from a trolley directly in the path of an oncoming car. The accident happened directly in front of Cronkite's home, to which he was returning after his day's work.

Body of Man Found in Woods
Swansea, Mass., Nov. 21.—In a lonely spot in the woods Lester Chase, while hunting small game, found the body of an unknown man who had apparently taken his own life with a revolver. The body was that of a man about 65 years of age.

A good many people believe that Education comes only from schools and colleges.

It doesn't.

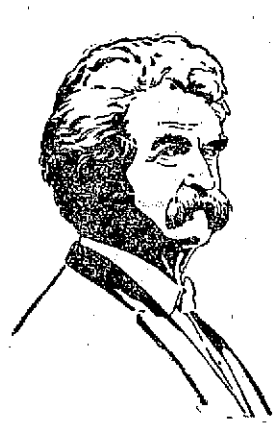

The most effective, most worth-while Education comes from a knowledge of human nature and a knowledge of life.

And the best way to learn these things that are real, short of years of experience, is in the pages of Mark Twain's books. You have thought of him only as a humorist and philosopher.

He is far more than this—he is first of all a Teacher, and you may benefit by his rich experience—use his powers of observation—learn human nature through his pages.

CONTENT.

The fountain of content must spring up in the mind, and he who has so little knowledge of human nature as to seek happiness by changing anything but his own disposition will waste his life in fruitless efforts and multiply the griefs he purposes to remove.—Johnson.

TAFT A DOER OF THINGS

William H. Taft has devoted all his time and energy to the duties of office. No matter what embarrassing situations might appear as the result of Roosevelt's attempts to take rank as the first American citizen, Taft has kept his head, has done his duty as he saw fit, and today is the head of the nation unsmirched as well as the head of his party.

The election just passed showed conclusively that the people believed in Taft and resented the efforts of any private citizen to take precedence in New Hampshire especially the vote was highly complimentary to the president. In cities where Roosevelt spoke, Republican officials, if given any majorities, received much lower ones than for years.

The Herald does not wish to appear as attempting to minimize the many qualities of Theodore Roosevelt. It has long admired his courage and the fearless motives actuating the performance of his duties. It does, however, entertain feelings of admiration for President Taft's judicial temperament, his get there policies and his ability as a doer of things.

Some people criticized his trip to Panama, but we believe that it was but his duty to inspect the greatest engineering enterprise which the world has ever seen as a man actually representing the people, and his visit will result in much good.

President Taft pursues the even tenor of his way, going about his duties day by day unmindful of the public and with the sole object of doing his work faithfully and well. No man has done more in the way of good lawmaking and of clearing up matters affecting the welfare of the American people than William H. Taft.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

There is a great deal of good sound common sense in the editorial from the Concord Monitor which is reprinted today in our Exchange column. Truly a house divided against itself can not stand, and no more could the Republican party. Its reunion is a great blessing.

Possibly the celerity with which Murderer Crippen's case was settled in England had some effect on the promptness characterizing the trial of the Lynn bandits. The crime for which they were sentenced occurred no longer ago than June 25, only four months since. This is creditable work for courts in this country, even though the bandits are not to die till March. Perhaps another British example of quick despatch is needed to convince us of the need to still further accelerate the wheels of our justice.

A disease the advance of which baffles the best efforts of physicians renders the progress of medical genius puny by comparison, great as it actually has been and is. We are told that there are from 20,000 to 25,000 cases of infantile paralysis in the United States at present, and authorities place the minimum number of cases since 1905 at 100,000.

The most recent sport, if sport it may be called, to form the subject for a literary work is that of walking, and a volume recently published is entitled "Walking for Health and Recreation." A few of the titles are comprised in chapters headed "The Proper Way to Walk," "Tips for Walkers," "The Opinion of Prominent Men on the Benefits of Walking," and "Walking for School Girls." The book should aid in stimulating this most excellent exercise.

Not many persons realize that the Indian head on the American copper cent is more than an idealistic creation of some imaginative sculptor. As a matter of fact, however, it is a portrait of Mrs. Sarah Longacre Keen, whose father was a designer in the United States mint at Philadelphia many years ago. The daughter's profile was sketched in the head dress of a visiting chief, and was later accepted by the treasury department as the design for the penny. The noble red man might well feel slighted at this counterfeit of such long standing.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

The Reunited Party

One of the happiest results attending the Republican victory of 1910 in New Hampshire was the evidence it gave of a reunited party. Not only the Progressives, who had triumphed in the primaries in the choice of their favorite leader as the candidate for governor and in the state convention in the framing of a platform which gave excellent expression to their principles and ideas, but the Stand-Patters and the Old Guard, also, came to the support of the party ticket on November 8 with a good grace and a true loyalty which sustained their right to the title they themselves chose for their "wing" of the party, namely, the Regulars.

A study of the elections returns beginning with the city of Keene, the home of the defeated Regular candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, Colonel Bertram Ellis, but which gave Senator Bass a good majority over Mr. Carr, gives most encouraging testimony toward his verdict, that the Republican party in New Hampshire has "got together" splendidly and securely.

We hope and believe that this desirable condition within the party will be continued and confirmed by the course of events during the next legislative session, to which the people of the state will look for the carrying into effect of the Republican platform of 1910.

Able and experienced Republicans of both the Regular and the Progressive persuasion have been elected to the General Court. It will be their duty, and, we believe, their pleasure, to join hands heartily in the enactment of the legislation which the voters of New Hampshire showed by their franchise of November 8 that they demand.

The reduction in size of the Republican legislative majority will work for good rather than otherwise if it brings all the Republican senators and representatives into hearty accord, leads to the mutual recognition of merited claims to leadership on the part of Regulars and Progressives alike, and unites the party thoroughly for the enactment of its platform pledges into law as it was united on Nov. 8 for the election of its nominees.—Concord Monitor.

My Neighbor

The streets of Philadelphia are showing the edge of the holiday season, being thronged with crowds that are shopping in advance of the rush. Naturally, with crowds such as use Walnut, Chestnut and Market streets there is a give and take of street courtesies indicative of character, and disposition of the people. In many cases observed, the exhibition of good manners is habitual to the individual and in others of a spontaneous sincerity that is a pleasure to note.

A hurried man was observed to brush against an old woman selling knock-knocks, knocking one or two small envelopes to the pavement. A few steps and he halted, turned and

Keep Up Your Standard

I KNOW a man who was extremely ambitious to do something very distinctive and who had the ability to do it. When he started on his career, he was very exact and painstaking. He demanded the best of himself—would not accept his second best in anything. The thought of slighting his work was painful to him, but his mental processes have so deteriorated, and he has become so demoralized by the habit which, after a while, grew upon him, of accepting his second best, that he does it now without protest, seemingly without being conscious of it.

He is today doing quite ordinary things, without apparent mortification or sense of humiliation, and the tragedy of it all is, he does not know why he has failed!

One's ambition and ideals need constant watching and cultivation, in order to keep the standards up. Many people are so constituted that their ambition deteriorates and their ideals drop when they are alone, or with careless, indifferent people. They require the constant assistance, suggestion, prodding, or example of others to keep them up to standard.

I recall a once prominent man who, until the death of his wife, had very high ideals and a lofty aim; a man who was extremely painstaking and careful in everything, who would never accept anything from himself but the best he was capable of, but who, when he lived alone, gradually deteriorated in his appearance, his personal habits, and his lofty standards, until he became really repulsive, and yet he was apparently absolutely unconscious of the insidious change.

How quickly a youth of high ideals, who has been well trained in thoroughness, often deteriorates when he leaves home and goes to work for an employer with inferior ideals and slipshod methods!

The introduction of inferiority into our work is like introducing subtle poison into the system. It paralyzes the normal functions. Inferiority is an infection which, like Heaven, affects the entire system. It dulls ideals, palsies the aspiring faculty, stupefies the ambition, and causes deterioration all along the line.

Railroads of New England FAVOR TELEPHONE METHOD

Telegraph Gradually Being Supplanted on Train Dispatching Circuits

Railroads operating through New England have been amply the leaders in the movement to replace the telegraph by the telephone for the work of dispatching trains. The new method has been found satisfactory on a great many trunk lines of the country, and has many advantages in the way of economy, speed and safety.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford already has in operation telephone circuits covering 100 miles of its road from Northampton to New Haven, with branches to Holyoke and New Bedford. There are twenty-five telephone stations on this division, which is equipped with test sets, selectors and flexphones. Sixty-eight stations are in operation on the Boston and Maine, covering the White Mountain Division and the Concord Division. These circuits extend from Concord to Woodside, 93 miles, White River Junction to Concord, 70 miles, and from the White Mountain Division to Fitchburg, 50 miles. The best grade of copper wire is being used, together with telephone arms, selectors, working outfits and portable sets.

The Central Vermont has just ordered telephone equipment to cover its northern division from St. Albans to Windsor, Vermont. On this stretch of 150 miles there will be 35 telephone stations, which will be equipped with telephone arms and selector from cable.

The Boston and Albany already has in successful operation telephone equipment covering the whole of its main line and all branches from Boston to Albany. On these four circuits, extending 390 miles, there are 165 stations.

The equipment of these railroads was furnished by the Western Electric company, which has supplied more than 90 per cent. of the railroad telephone equipment now in use in this country. Other railroads are using the telephone for this service as far west as the Pacific coast and south as far as Florida and Texas.

Funny that the girl a woman picks for a daughter-in-law never comes within a thousand miles of being the one her son chooses for a wife.

Nothing is more exasperating when you are having a well substantiated bit of double refined worry than to have your friends come round and speak to you in soothing tones as they advise you not to.

Doctors never take their own medicine, and women never wear the kind of things they pick out for their friends.

SALISBURY BEACH SOLD

Five Miles of Beach Land Changes Ownership—Big Improvements Planned.

James R. Simpson, Portal M. Black and Walter Condon of Lawrence have contracted with the Salisbury land and improvement company, the owners of Salisbury beach, for the purchase of the entire beach at Salisbury, extending from the Merrimack river to the New Hampshire line, and running partly into New Hampshire and including the hotel Cushing and Atlantic house.

The contract is for the purchase of the fee of the beach, subject to the outstanding leases, and includes nearly five miles of ocean frontage.

Salisbury beach is probably the last of the land in Massachusetts to be held by "The Commons." The grant of the present beach was made to the Commons of Salisbury in 1683 by the Massachusetts Bay colony. These Commons and their descendants continued to hold the beach to within a few years, when E. P. Shaw, Treasurer of Massachusetts, acquired the rights of many of the Commons, formed a corporation, which secured all the outstanding interests and became the owner in fee simple of the whole of Salisbury beach.

Practically nothing had been done by the Commons of Salisbury with the beach, with the exception of selling the grass and sand, until 1866, when the first house was built, and the Commons began to lease house lots. This method of leasing lots instead of selling them continued in vogue by them until they parted with their interest in the beach to the new corporation.

The same system has been followed by the corporation down to the present time, so that the fee in the entire beach, except in one or two minor lots, has been retained by the corporation, and the inhabitants and summer residents have built their houses on leased land. Cottages have been going up rapidly in the last 20 years, so that the greater portion of the beach is now built upon.

Boston and many other cities have contributed largely to the summer population, and many citizens have built their summer cottages at Salisbury and enjoyed the natural beauties of the resort. But little has been done either by the present or past owners, however, to improve the beach, and although no effort has been made for the amusement of the summer visitors, it is crowded year after year by those who enjoy its clear sandy stretches and healthful breezes.

It is understood that the new owners contemplate extensive improvements and Salisbury beach will undoubtedly become more popular than ever for the residents of the Merrimack river.

Salisbury beach lies on the Atlantic ocean, between the Merrimack river and the New Hampshire line, and is composed almost wholly of sand. It is cut off from the mainland by meadows, which are covered by water when the tides run high.

The cottages are mostly small, wooden structures of an average cost of $700, particularly those at the south end. There are a number of small hotels at the center, the largest being the hotel Cushing and the Atlantic house. About the center and further north the cottages are more substantial and will average $1200 in cost.

All buildings are on leased land owned by the Salisbury land and improvement company, successors to the Salisbury Commons, and E. P. Shaw, Treasurer of Massachusetts, and members of his family are said to hold a controlling interest.

Salisbury levies the land tax on owners of cottages rather than on the owners of the land. There are some 50 cottages and the valuation of the lots is placed at about $50,000. The unoccupied land is taxed to the land and improvement company for $78,000.

The Salisbury beach improvement company, a corporation substantially the same as the one owning the land and which owns the hotel Cushing, the Cushing annex and Atlantic

CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR OF DOVER

DWIGHT HALL SECURES THE REPUBLICAN NOMINATION, AND DR. SULLIVAN THE DEMOCRATIC.

In one of the largest majority caucuses in years in Dover the Republicans Friday night nominated for mayor, Dwight Hall, who is about to retire from the office of solicitor of Stratford county, which he has held nearly six years.

He received 613 votes to 363 for his opponent, Ex-Representative George P. Barrett, a prominent business man and secretary of the board of trade. Mr. Barrett, who did not enter the race until the day after the state election, distributed at the polls and over the city a stirring printed appeal for votes, but the tide had already settled toward Hall.

Candidate Hall is a son of the late Joshua G. Hall, ex-mayor, ex-congressman, and one of the leading lawyers of the state. He was educated at Dartmouth and the Harvard law school. Besides serving as county solicitor, he has served as U. S. commissioner in bankruptcy.

In the Democratic caucus, Dr. Miah B. Sullivan was the only candidate, and he received a good-sized vote.

HARVARD AND YALE PLAY TIE

Neither Side Scored and Harvard Fell Down on Fumbles

Harvard fell down badly at New Haven on Saturday, for its much-heralded football team failed to defeat Yale and had to be satisfied with a nothing to nothing game. It was a terrible disappointment to Harvard, for this year's team was considered to be one of the best ever developed and with Yale below her usual standard, it was thought that it was only a question of score. The unexpected happened, however, and along with Yale's desperate game came the repeated fumbles of the stars of the Crimson team. To these fumbles alone can Harvard attribute her loss, for she outplayed Yale in all branches of the game, and at all times was threatening, while on the other hand Yale never threatened the Crimson goal, other than one forlorn attempt at a field goal from a distance that made it hardly probable that it would be pulled off.

ANNAPOLIS COWS KILLED

Failed to Pass Tuberculin Test—No Bearing on Typhoid Fever Epidemic at Naval Academy.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 20.—Inspectors of the federal department of agriculture Saturday ordered 13 cows of a herd that supplies milk to the naval academy killed because they failed to pass a tuberculin test.

It was said that the test is made regularly every six months and that the inspection had no bearing on the fact that midshipmen have typhoid fever from causes that have so far baffled the medical authorities here and the experts in Washington.

ORIGIN OF THANKSGIVING

As Seen By a Close Observer of History.—What Gov. Bradford Had to Do With It.

(From the New York Sunday World.)

GOVERNOR BRADFORD of the New England Colony did not, as many people think, invent Thanksgiving in 1621, and if he claimed to it was an out and out infringement on previous patents, for many people of many countries, even far back in Bible history, had been setting aside times for feasts and rejoicing when they cut their oats, corns, squashes and other conveniences in the fall of the year.

But, nevertheless, the Governor and his colonists no doubt broke the record for intensity of thankfulness,

for, having so very little to be thankful for, the job could be done up in fine shape and not be neglected on any point.

During the voyage over on the somewhat unsteady Mayflower, if any one had so much as suggested a hearty

Thanksgiving dinner he or she would most probably have been tossed over the rail, and some one of us today would be minus a Pilgrim ancestor.

It is said that the rough trip over was the real cause of the Pilgrims utterly losing their sense of humor and always carrying around such long faces.

Anyhow, hardships began right at Plymouth Rock, for everybody was just crazy to set foot on something solid and naturally there was some tossing and elbowing in the rush.

The Rock was never constructed for much of a crowd, and besides this, was real slick around the edges where the tide had washed up a few old jelly fish, so those who secured standing room only skidded off into the ocean without their rubbers on, and got wet feet, which, as every one knows, is a bad thing to do in December anywhere along the New England coast. Of course, these proceedings wound up with coughs, colds in the head and sore throats, which filled up the hospital right from the start.

As is usual in Massachusetts, there was no policeman around to handle the crowd, or all this might have been avoided. It was a mighty bad winter, and, according to the accounts of the sufferers themselves, "lions roared and "wolves sat on their tails and grinned," and if the Indians had not done any worse life would have been much more attractive in Plymouth.

But soon after landing, in scouting around a deserted Indian village, several baskets of corn, two pumpkin seeds and a recipe for mince pie were found, so that a foundation for the first planting was assured, which at least gave the people something to look forward to.

All this time marvelous appetites were being developed for the big feed in the fall, for, not yet having become familiar with the location of the best grocery stores and meat markets,

the colonists were on a diet principally of little Neck clams (much cheaper then than now) and eels, which they trod out of the mud at low tide with their bare feet.

This undoubtedly brought into play the sternal bearing and strength of character of these old fellows more than anything else, for what lion nerve it must have taken to feel a cold, squirming eel suddenly wriggle up between one's bare toes and not lose any dignity or give way to unseemly remarks!

Spring came and the planting was done under very trying circumstances, for the would-be agriculturists could hardly stoop over to bed in a grain of corn but what some Indian with a crude, primitive sense of humor would let loose an arrow.

However, the crops did splendidly and were well attended, you may be sure, for the clam and eel diet was losing popularity.

The pumpkins spread all over the place and were diligently "bugged"

every day to save the vines, and the extra shoots (technically known as "suckers") were all cut off the corn and fed to the only heifer calf in the colony, in hopes that she might be induced to grow up and become a mature cow some day.

The harvest was so abundant that they even spared one pumpkin for the children to make a jack-o'-lantern of,

and by working all day and praying all night everything was at last getting in.

Now, Governor Bradford noticed how tired, thin and thankful everybody looked; and the most appropriate thing he could think of in the way of celebration was to set aside three days to see how big a hole

they could eat in the harvest.

All fell right in with this unique preparation.

Men were sent out gunning for turkeys, geese and other feathered poultry—barring crows and Indians. The old flint lock guns kicked so that while the bullet killed one bird the Pilgrim progressing through the air in the opposite direction would crash out the life of another, unsuspecting fowl, who merely considered himself an innocent bystander until so rudely sat upon.

However, this was a great saving of ammunition, and the hunters soon returned with bruises and game aplenty.

The Indians, getting a whiff of finer pie with brandy sauce and other evidence of a "heap big" free lunch, immediately became friendly and flocked in to town with their best feathers on and belts let out to the last hole.

This incident gave rise to the custom which we follow to this day of always inviting outsiders in to Thanksgiving before they get a chance to come without asking.

It was a merry time indeed. Everybody would sit down and eat a while,

then go out and run races with the Indians (which had been done here-before under very different circumstances) until the violent exercise had so aided digestion that they could eat again.

So, taking it all in all, the feast was such a great success and took so with the public that Manager Bradford decided to reproduce it every year, and thus the grand old custom has come down to the present day, where some are overfed and some are underfed.

That is where the old Pilgrims got the best of us—they fared and shared equally in want or abundance.

We sit down, to overloaded board-and hurriedly give thanks, one eye shut and the other on the turkey, never giving a thought to the rows and rows of little teeth with no drumsticks to gnaw or the thousands of mouths that would water at the very scraps from our tables.

Let us back up a few hundred years in spirit this Thanksgiving, good people, and go out and fill somebody up that needs it, then come back to our own needs with that good old-fashioned thankfulness whetting up our appetites.

NAVY YARD

Work on Hospital Suspended

Work on the new naval hospital being built on Seaveys Island by a Baltimore construction company was suspended Saturday until spring. The new structure is about two-thirds completed. The Baltimore company also suspended operations on several other contract jobs they have for the government.

Football Game Canceled

The football game scheduled for Sunday at the navy yard between the Fort McKinley team of Portland and an eleven from the U. S. S. North Carolina, was canceled. It is expected that a game will yet be arranged between the teams, as the North Carolina team is the only service team that has defeated the soldier eleven this season.

Capps Ordered Abroad

Chief Constructor Washington L. Capps has received orders detaching him from duty as senior member of the board on changes for vessel building on the Atlantic coast. His orders which take effect Nov. 29, require him to inspect conditions prevailing at Cavite and Olongapo, to examine into facilities for naval repair work on the Asiatic station, to ascertain whether conditions warrant further expenditure of public funds, to submit a report on construction of the Philippines, to ascertain the extent of repairs needed on ships of the Pacific fleet, to visit navy yards and shipbuilding plants of different countries and taking occasion to visit foreign vessels and dock yards, returning and reporting the results of the trip to the secretary of the navy. Part of the duties assigned Constructor Capps is the investigation into the development of the aeroplane in connection with warships abroad.

May Establish Yards and Docks

The conference of the commandants of navy yards, which took place in Washington last week, was mainly devoted to a discussion of the means by which there could be established a uniformity in the details of administration at the various plants. It has been observed that there is considerable difference in the methods at the yards. It is understood there was also some discussion of the project recommended last year by the commandants, to reestablish a department of yards and docks at each navy yard.

To Go Before Retiring Board

Chaplain Curtis Hoyt Dickens has been ordered to Washington to go before a retiring board on account of some physical disability.

More Typhoid Victims

Six more midshipmen have been stricken with typhoid at Annapolis, the total now being 20. One of the unhappiest middies is from Massachusetts. Another from Connecticut comprises the total of those from this part of the country.

Sewall at Norfolk

William L. Miller of Boston was the lowest bidder for the construction of a sea wall at the Norfolk navy yard at his figure of $204,845.

To Suspend Wednesday

It is reported that work on the new naval hospital on the eastern end of Seaveys Island will be suspended Wednesday for the winter.

Resignation Not Approved

The paymaster general of the navy has refused to give his approval to the acceptance of the resignation of an officer of the naval pay corps, who desired to separate himself from the service, giving as a reason that "the constant danger of losses is not compensated for by either the honor of the commission or the salary attached thereto."

Florida May Cost Six Millions

The naval authorities are confronted with the dire prospect that the cost of the battleship Florida, under construction at the navy yard, Brooklyn, may exceed the limit of cost of $6,000,000. Prompt steps have been taken to prevent any such excess, and the effort will be made to so arrange the remainder of the work to bring the total cost within the prescribed amount.

No More "Coat Cruisers"

The scout cruiser as a type of warship has had a brief career, if it shall turn out, as now seems to be most likely, that the enlarged torpedo boat destroyer, contemplated in the designs now under consideration, and which the Drayton, now here, and her class nearly approach, shall be regarded as a sufficient substitute for such vessels as those of the Chester class. Congress will probably be asked at the coming session to provide for destroyers of about 1000 tons displacement, which brings the destroyer into the class of the scout cruiser, to all intents and purposes.

To Raise the Puritan

In order to investigate the question of raising the monitor Puritan, which lies in the mud of Hampton Roads as a result of the experiments with nitroglycerine gelatine, Admiral Richard M. Watt, chief constructor of the navy, has gone to Norfolk. Admiral Watt will attempt to find out whether the facilities of the government are equal to the task or whether it will be necessary to call upon a wrecking company to perform it. The latter, it is said, in all probability, will be the outcome.

Salior Killed at Cherbourg

Patrick J. Fitzsimmons, the sailor from the battleship Louisiana, who was stabbed during the fight at Cherbourg, France, between the white and colored bluejackets, died Saturday afternoon. Benjamin Prim from the Kansas, who was also wounded, is improving.

ARTESIAN WELLS AT APPLEDORE

Manager Morse of the AppleDore Hotel at the Isles of Shoals has contracted for the sinking of a system of artesian wells on the island.

Indications are that pure fresh water is to be found deep in the heart of the rocky isle.

The establishment of such a system will render the island independent of the mainland, on which it is obliged to rely in time of drought. Few summers have passed in which thousands of gallons have not been taken there from this city.
